Another heart warming Australian rural romance from the author of Back to Blue Gum Flat and The Journey Home.

Ella Milson is up for a change and so she accepts the role of principal in the small one teacher school in Blue Gum Flat. She expects to face some challenges, it's a far cry from her inner city life, but she's wrong. Most people are very welcoming, especially her devastatingly attractive landlord Clayton Richards.

Clayton is counting the hours until his contract in the mines finishes and he can plough his hard earned cash into the property he inherited from his Pop. It's a dream he's had since he was a kid and he doesn't intend to fail.

But Clayton's not the only person with memories of the house on the other side of Tom Cat Creek
